Saint Twins Bio

As seen on

The world's first & only twin thought readers, the Saint Twins (John & Adrian Saint) are definitely not your typical set of twins. They capture the imagination of their audiences with their energetic and unique presentation of mental abilities they call "TSP" (Twin Sensory Perception). John & Adrian have always been fascinated with the human mind and how it creates reality and meaning. Being twins they grew up close to each other and sharing similar interests, they started to study and read numerous books in the areas of psychology, magic, influence, persuasion, hypnosis, linguistics, intuition, NLP, statistics, perceptual manipulation, theater, comedy, ESP, acting and verbal / non-verbal communication, to create the baffling skills they demonstrate on stage.

The Saint Twins' performance style is anything but conventional. They prefer to be called "Mentalist, Twin Sensory Perceptionist, or Thought Readers." Using no secret assistants or electronics, they work with random people and their minds to create mind-blowing and impossible demonstrations that leave people entertained and mystified. During their performance, John and Adrian communicate telepathically with each other, secret thoughts are revealed, objects are caused to move with the power of their minds and amazing predictions made before the event are revealed to be mysteriously accurate. In 2004 MTV filmed a documentary about their unique skills and their lives as twins. They were selected nationwide from over 1000 sets of twins. The show aired nationally and garnered rave reviews! While in college, Adrian caused a major stir in his community when he predicted the results of Super Bowl XL one week before the game was played and received numerous press and media attention. It caused such a stir on his campus that people accused him of having strange powers, but the only powers The Saint Twins claim are the powers of knowledge, twin intuition and hard work.

John & Adrian are devoted life time learners and college graduates. John holds a BA in Psychology from UC Riverside, while Adrian has a MBA in marketing from Argosy University and a BA from UC Davis in Sociology-Organizational Studies and Communication.

When the Saint Twins are not performing they can be found doing the normal things that most people their age do, but they truly feel at home when they are entertaining. They are unique, young, fresh and enjoy being a brother to brother mind reading team for their brand of mystery entertainment.
